JAPANESE FIGHT LOSING BATTLE ON OKINAWA AS AMERICANS BEAT DOWN COUNTER-ATTACKS; PUSH STEADILY ON

One Sector Yanks Begin Downhill Phase of Their Fight

SUPPLY IS A PROBLEM

The Japanese forces on southern Okinawa fought a losing battle today, as American troops beat down their counter-attacks and advanced steadily on both flanks of the Yaeju-Dake escarpment.

In at least one sector, the Yanks are the downhill phase of their fight, having driven the Nips from a firm of the escarpment.

International News Service War correspondent George McWilliams, the front with the Tenth Army, said that the infantrymen of the Tenth Division drove "nearly a mile down sloping ground toward the southwest corner of Okinawa."

Before beginning this downhill drive, the doughboys stood fast in the face of two furious counter-attacks.

Old Glory" Receives The Salute of Nation Today

By International News Service)

Old Glory, symbol of freedom the world over, received the nation's salute today as a people united in fighting the enemies of liberty commemorated the 169th anniversary of Flag Day.

The celebration focussed in Philadelphia, where Betsy Ross, a humble seamstress, pieced together the stars of red, white and blue that are destined to become the Stars and Stripes.

Patriotic groups will participate in an observance at the Betsy Ross house, nestled amidst industrial plants near the Quaker City waterfront, while others will make the annual pilgrimage to her grave in St. Philadelphia.

A rally at Independence Hall will climax the day's observance, following a parade through the central city. Artemus L. Gates, Undersecretary of the Navy, will address a group.

HULMEVILLE

Places were arranged for the following at the covered dish luncheon which the Bible Class of Neshaminy Methodist Sunday School held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Edward Bilger: Mrs. Ashbel Buckman, Mrs. Uwellan Miller, Mrs. Edward Davis, Mrs. Huntsberger, Mrs. Mary Rapp, Mrs. Jesse G. Webster, Mrs. Roland Scribner, Mrs. Joseph Everitt, Mrs. Horace C. Cox and Mrs. Bilger. Later the women enjoyed the see-saw, swings and roller-coaster on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bilger.

The musical festival presented in Neshaminy Methodist Church last evening was exceptionally well received. The church auditorium was filled with music lovers who were loud in their praise of the splendid program. In addition to the scheduled numbers there were several encores. In the added numbers, solo parts were taken by Miss Marie Hanson and Miss Adeline E. Reetz. Monroe Schadt did a capable job of directing, with Miss Hilda MacArthur at the piano. Serving as usherettes were Miss Gloria Brigall and Mrs. Charles Smith. At the conclusion of the musical refreshments were served members of the church choir and the church choir in the social hall.

BROTHERS AT HOME

Chester Pizzullo, S. 2/c, who has completed his "boot" training at Camp Stoneman, N. Y., has been spending days at his home on Market Street. His brother, Louis Pizzullo, who has just returned from overseas, is also visiting at his home.

UP-TO-PRESS-TIME WAR BULLETINS (By International News Service)

SCORES OF 'JAPS' REVOLT AGAINST COMMANDERS

Guam—Scores of Japanese troops on Okinawa revolted today against their commander's "fight to death" plan by surrendering to victorious U. S. Tenth Army forces.

Nipponese soldiers rarely have been so defiant of their warlords' orders as those facing annihilation at the hands of the Sixth Marine Division on Okinawa peninsula, on Okinawa's west coast.

In the southern tip of the island, there were no indications of a letup in enemy resistance although both flanks of the Jap line have been smashed back.

Scores of the Japs were coming in to the Marines' prisoner of war stockade.

The Japs pocketed on Oroku, completely disorganized and cut to ribbons by Gen. Shepherd's leathernecks, were reduced to little more than isolated groups, cringing in scattered dugouts and caves overlooking Naha airfield.

The situation of the enemy troops, compressed into the southern sector, was little better.

The First Marine Division, on the right American flank, and the Seventh Infantry Division, on the left, succeeded in turning the flanks of the Japs' Yaeju-Dake escarpment defenses. Enemy positions were in imminent danger of being surrounded by a wide-sweeping American pincer movement.

Picnic Supper Arranged By S. Langhorne Ass'n

SOUTH LANGHORNE, June 14—A picnic supper was participated in by 18 members of the Associated Business Men of South Langhorne last evening. They assembled at the cabin of Jacob Weller, at Oakford. The men also enjoyed shuffleboard.

During the short business meeting Charles O'Brien presided. Report was made that at the bond auction on May 28th a total of $8,000 in bond sales was accounted for, and credited to the 7th loan drive.

Biagio Passanante, Farragut avenue and Green Lane, was removed to St. Agnes Hospital, Philadelphia, yesterday, in Bucks Co. Rescue Squad ambulance.

BRITAIN AND COMMUNISM

Communism, if it finally is overcome as a political ideology, undoubtedly will be recognized as the gravest danger to free government in the history of civilization.

It is so serious a menace because it is serfdom disguised as freedom—because it has sought to "sell" dictatorship by pretending that the common people would receive the same benefits as under democracy but in more efficient form.

The theories of Communism were used by Hitler and Mussolini to lead Germany and Italy into State-Socialism and thereafter on a mailed-fist attempt to seize the whole world.

Its bitter results when tried by these two races have not been object lesson enough to stop the experiments elsewhere. Much of Europe is once again dabbling with the Communistic plan of over-all economic controls, and in the Western Hemisphere Argentina had adopted the militarized version of Communism, which we call Facism.

Canada, during the war-time coalition government of Prime Minister MacKenzie King, was strongly tempted by Communism. At various times, as happened also in England, balance-of-power groups influenced by Communism, succeeded in forcing some of its ideas through on the implied threat of breaking the coalition.

Last Monday Canada had its showdown on Communism vs. Free Government—and Free Government won.

MacKenzie King and his Liberal Party Government were returned to office by a heavy majority.

In the election various other parties and candidates had offered Communist-tinged plans for a collectivized state. None of these received serious consideration by the voters.

One cannot draw a definite parallel between MacKenzie King's Liberal Party and any similar political party in the United States. This is partly due to the fact that the Canadian election was not between two major parties, but instead had 18 parties and 958 candidates.

The closest United States parallel would be the joint views of the Southern Democrat-Northern Republican fusion group in Congress.

King has been a middle-of-the-roader—called conservative by the radicals and radical by the conservatives. The extent to which he has resisted full centralization of power may be shown in the fact that he had blocked all efforts to set up a compulsory draft for overseas service.

While his program envisions full post-war employment, fair distribution of income, and government projects to take up slack in work, it also includes full reliance on private enterprise, with government interference only to prevent monopolies and inflation.

The Canadian repudiation of Communistic beliefs will have strong effect, in the long run, on both American and English politics—indeed, the coming event may already have cast its shadow before in the recent about-face of the Communistic Party in this nation.

King's victory will be heartening to all those who feared that Communism, masquerading as the British Labor party, might succeed in overthrowing Winston Churchill at the coming British elections.

Churchill has chosen to run for re-election, not as a reward for his immeasurable service to his native land, but on the issue of what we would call Communism, although he identifies it by one of its aliases—Socialism.

Impose Prison Sentence and Fine on Raccagno

Philadelphia—Felix Raccagno, 63, former Bristol service station operator, was under a 32-day prison sentence and a $500 fine today for trafficking in counterfeit gasoline ration stamps.

Raccagno pleaded no contest to charges of giving the Trenton Oil Co., which supplied his station at 420 Dorrance street, Bristol, 961 fake coupons worth 4895 gallons of gasoline in February and March of 1944. He will serve his term in Montgomery County Jail at Norristown.

Despite the announcement by Federal Judge George A. Welsh that OPA violators were going to meet stiffer sentences in Federal Courts at Philadelphia, Judge Ganey said he thought Raccagno's case was an exception.

The jurist pointed out that the gas dealer was first brought into court before Judge Harry E. Kalodner last March on the same offense, and that Judge Kalodner advised him to change his plea of guilty to not guilty and stand trial.

Raccagno at that time told the court he did not know the tokens were spurious, that he had accepted them in good faith from his customers, and had not bought any.

Since Judge Kalodner was meting out only 32 day sentences plus fines for such offenses during March, Judge Ganey asserted he felt the defendant was entitled to a like light sentence this time.

2 Sisters Attempt Rescue Near Their Summer Residence

A son of a retired park guard of Philadelphia was drowned in the Delaware river off College Park, Troydon, last night. The victim, Harold Reuter, 16, son of Robert Reuter, dropped off a float near Second avenue. Two sisters made valiant efforts to rescue their brother but failed.

It was about seven o'clock when the lad, after eating a heavy meal, dropped into the water while an older sister was bathing nearby. It is believed that the boy was shocked by the sudden plunge into the cold river water which was several degrees cooler than the temperature on land.

His sister went to his aid as well as an older sister who was fully clothed and ran to the spot from nearby.

A call for aid was sent out and members of the Lower Bucks County Marine Association responded. The body was quickly recovered and efforts to revive the boy were started. Work was continued from 7:15 until 10:15. The Bucks County Rescue Squad set up its recently acquired portable lighting system and Penna. State Police from Langhorne was summoned.

Bucks County coroner, J. Alfred Ritzby was called to view the body and then released it to a Philadelphia undertaker.

The Reuter family members made their summer home at College Park coming to the community last year for the first time. After the drowning the family returned to their Philadelphia home at 4407 Rhawn street, with the body of their son.

Supper Meeting Occurs Here With 75 Attending

Seventy-five members of the Bristol Methodist Church attended an official board platter dinner last night. The object of the meeting was to hear reports of two projects which have been in progress for the past six months. One to raise the church's quota of money for the "Crusade for Christ" campaign and the other to raise money for a church improvement fund.

After enjoying an appetizing menu the group assembled for a short business meeting and the reports made were very encouraging.

Four reels of beautifully-colored and interesting pictures of the Canadian Rockies were shown by Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus E. Smith, of Hulmeville. Mr. Smith gave brief explanations of the pictures which were much enjoyed.

RESURGENT CHINA

There has been no more welcome development in recent months in the war against Japan
than the sudden change in China's military fortunes. After long years of fighting, marked mostly
by costly reverses and retreats,
the resurgent Chinese army has suddenly and successfully taken
the offensive against the invaders.

A long stretch of the coast near Foochow has been swiftly cleared
and the corridor to Indo-China,
which the Japanese carved out at much trouble and expense last year, is fading away. Finally, the Chinese are regaining the air
bases from which American Super-Fortresses used to bomb
Japan until the enemy drove
them out.

The most logical explanation
of this dramatic turn in the tide
is that the Japanese are withdrawing their occupation forces
northward. The commanders in Tokyo must be painfully aware
that they are badly overextended
on the continent of Asia and in a highly vulnerable position. Their southern conquests now represent
more of a liability than an asset
and it would be hardly surprising
if they had decided to liquidate
them.

At the same time it is also beyond dispute that the Chinese armies facing them are better organized, better equipped, better
trained and better led than they have been since the early days of the war. The end of the Burma
campaign has released the veteran
units trained by General Stilwell
and supplies are reaching China
in greater quantity. Moreover,
the command has been shifted to replace generals who were incompetent or worse with leaders
familiar with western ideas of strategy and tactics.

But whatever the reason for the victories, whether they have been won because the Japanese
are weak or the Chinese strong,
the result is to strengthen enormously the prestige and influence of the Chungking government
and to lessen the divisions which have weakened the Chinese. That,
in itself, is a major gain.

24-HOUR CLOCK FACE

Some dwellers of rural areas
have advocated a return to standard time, but none thus far has advocated adoption of the 24-hour clock. Such a change might meet favor with thousands of service people who have learned
to think of time in terms of
twenty-four consecutive hours.

When service people speak of 15 o'clock they mean the time that to a civilian is 3 p. m. The service clock does not pause at noon and start over. It regards 3 p. m. as 13 o'clock and continues until it reaches the twenty-
fourth hour at midnight.

In parts of Canada the 24-hour system is now observed and a few
watches have appeared in this country with 24-hour dials. They are generally used for navigation
purposes, and have not been
available for civilian purchase.
Many who have become accustomed to the plan feel that the armed services were wise in thus avoiding confusion and misunderstanding.

ROMANTIC MASQUERADE

by MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

The things she'd told him she had to do began with looking for Perry Dawson. Gresham Institute was twenty miles the other side of the hollow. Daphne was so tired, fearful of falling asleep at the wheel,
she didn't dare speed on the open
road.

It took her nearly an hour and a half to get to the laboratory
where an attendant told her that
Mr. Dawson would not be there.
It was, he reminded her, a holiday
—the Fourth of July.

"Well, happy holiday!" she said
giddily, getting back into her car,
wondering why the man gave her
such a funny look.

Daphne did feel "sort o' foggy."
But then few people can stay up
all night and be fresh in the morning.

Daphne drove into the village to Barker's drug store. Its genial proprietor said she looked as if she hadn't had any sleep for a week,
and told her that the Dawsons lived
on Parker street, six miles out of the village.

It was after 10 a. m. when Daphne found the little frame
house with the dressmaker's sign.
But Perry Dawson was not there.

"Perry's spending the holiday
with the Turners," his mother told Daphne. "He and Elizabeth are engaged, and there's a party up
at her house."

Daphne headed the car for the Turner estate.

The Turner butler responded to
her ring, and she said, "Grainger,
is Mr. Dawson here? I must see him
at once."

"They've all gone to the lake, Mrs.
Abruzzi."

Daphne collapsed on a hall bench.
"I can't go to the lake," she muttered.

"They'll be back for lunch at one."
"Grainger," she looked at him
—appealingly. "I've been up all night."

"You look very pale. Can I get you something?"

"Yes, I want to lie down. I ought not to—some danger warned her,
but she couldn't grasp it, she was so sleepy—but I must. Just have to sleep now. Will you see that I'm awakened—as soon as Mr. Dawson
comes back?"

Grainger promised and called one
of the maids who took her upstairs,
gave her a pair of Buff's pajamas,
pulled the shades, and promised to
let her know as soon as the party returned.

"Not the party, just Mr. Dawson!" Daphne said, and was asleep instantly. . . .

Hours later, she woke from a
fevered dream, feeling her hot hand
in a cool one, and saw that Perry was grinning at her from her bedside. Or was it a Cheshire cat bobbing at her?

"Hi, Daphne! Heard you wanted to see me alone, and I thought it was ol' Steve. . . ."

"Stop babbling up and down."
His grin disappeared instantly
and he put his hand to her cheeks—
alarm leapt to his eyes.

"Perry, I had to see you." She smoke fast, breathlessly, as if she had been running. "There's something you've got to do. Steve hasn't anyone but you and me. That's why I did it. If it works for you, you'll

do it."

"Do what?" he asked, feeling her
pulse racing under his finger-tips.
Daphne pulled up her sleeve.
There was a tiny pin point of red
in a widening circle of red on her arm. "No one answered his call for volunteers. . . so I did. I don't worry. It'll be fine. I knew how to
do it."

At that moment, Buff came to the bedroom door, and Perry
shouted at her. "Keep out of here!
Call Dr. McIntosh and get him over here as fast as you can!"

"I want Steve," Daphne moaned.
"It has to be Steve."

"Sure, sure! Tell me what time
you gave yourself the shot, and then
keep quiet."

"Five o'clock," she said, closing
her eyes again. "Perry, I feel awful, but I know it's going to be all right."

"You bet. We'll get Steve over.
Everything's going to be okay."
Under his breath he added fervently, "I hope."

Daphne's eyes were open and
sometimes they seemed to be fixed
on his face, but she didn't know him.
The masked figures—and he was one of them—making a circle about
her hospital bed, were no part of the world of her delirium.

Dr. Fenwick (her Steve)—his bloodless face like granite—stood at the foot of the bed. Beside him,
Dr. Lindquist, and back of him,
Drs. Porter, Rabinowitz, and Schuyler. They had their eyes fixed on Dr. McIntosh, who stood by the side of the bed, with his fingers on her wrist.

At the other side of the bed, a nurse held a thermometer in the sick girl's mouth.

There was no sound in the room,
save for the labored, "tortured"
breathing of the fever-ridden body
under the sheet.

The nurse removed the thermometer and handed it to Dr. Mc-Intosh. The eyes of the five watching physicians shifted to his face
as he read it. He turned slowly, his eyes now upon Dr. Fenwick's face.

Steve said, "Yes, Doctor?"
"Her life is in your hands, Fenwick. If your serum can save her,
it's the only thing that will."

The atmosphere of the room was tense as Steve scrubbed, slipped his hands into the gloves held for him,
and went towards the bed, hypo-
dermic needle in hand.

He stood there, looking down at
her for a moment, a prayer in his heart.

The nurse rolled back the sleeve
of the hospital shirt, disclosing a
thin arm, burning to her touch,
washed it with a dab of cotton and stepped back. Dr. Fenwick promptly made the vital injection.

"That's it, gentlemen," he said.
"We'll not know the results for twenty-four hours, unless" . . . his voice subsided into silence.

His fellow doctors moved out silently.

"Coming, Fenwick?" Schuyler
asked.

"No."
Steve didn't know how much later
it was that the nurse asked if she should send relief while she went out to get her supper. He shook his head. "I'll stay here," he said.

Alone with the sick girl, he sat
by her bed, watching her as if his eyes could not move from her face,
feeling in his own body the torture
that racked her.

It was the other torture—the not knowing if he had done what was right—that was hardest to bear. He had let her suffer for three days,
knowing he would not have hesi-tated an hour had this been any other than Daphne.

In his heart inarticulate things
stirred. The radiance of the moon riding high drew his eyes to the window and he got up and went to it,
looking up into the night sky, knowing that there was a power beyond
science, that whatever he might do,
he was only an instrument of God
in this supreme effort.

Steve stood there for a long time,
unconscious of the wind rustling the
trees and cooling the isolation ward,
of the chiming of the Town Hall
clock, of the beat of insect wings
against the screen. He heard only the terrible breathing at his back
—would Daphne die?

That grim thought haunted him
even while he slept fitfully during
a few hours the next day, preparing
himself for the crisis the night
would bring.

The watch was not his alone. The others were there: Drs. Schuyler, McIntosh, Rabinowitz and Lindquist.

Twenty hours, twenty-one,
twenty-two. . . .

Again Steve stood with his back to the room, his hands clasped behind him as he looked beyond the horizon where dark clouds were pil-
ling up, bringing a storm that was already wailing in the tree tops.

The world outside was filled with sound.

And in the room—
His heart seemed to stand still.
The sound of her breathing had stopped.

Steve turned very slowly. And saw the men in white lean over the bed, and it seemed to him that he could not look, and yet he found himself crossing the room, gazing
down at her.

Daphne's parched lips were closed.
Veins were blue lines in the ashen pallor of her temples. Gone was her fevered flush, leaving her thin
cheeks waxen, peaceful.

The sheet above her bosom moved slowly, evenly. She opened her eyes
for an instant and closed them
again. She was asleep.

Steve knew then that she would
live.

He went out of the room, out of the building, and walked through the night with his face lifted to what lay beyond the storm, above
the stars themselves.

When the day broke he returned to the hospital, Perry Dawson was
with him.

Dress Jane Ball Wed At New Hope to Monte Proser

W HOPE, June 14—A well-known Hollywood actress, Jane S. Proser, was wed here on Saturday to Monte Proser, theatrical producer and club owner. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's father, Donald E. De-Laury, and was officiated by the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis, pastor of the Eddington Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ball, of New York. Attendants include: Mrs. Evalyn B. Rightmyer, of New York, a sister of the bride, and Walter Batchelor, of New York and Newtown, N.J.

The marriage is the second for Proser. He was divorced from his first wife, June Jenner, in May, 1933. In his marriage application he gave his address as a New York City resident.

Proser is the owner of the El Comodoro, a New York night club, and the Casablanca Inn, opposite the Garden State Race Track, Camden, N.J.

Among the guests attending the wedding were Shirley Ball, of New York, another sister; Barbara Ball, of Newtown, N.J., and Clara Ball, of New York City.

The bride wore a Navy blue tulle and white accessories and carried a white bouquet. The bridesmaids wore black and white tulle dresses and accessories to match the bride.

DeLaury said the couple will live in Bucks County, Pa.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor

Eddington Presbyterian Church

Dear Father, we thank Thee for the flag of the United States. For 168 years it has been our symbol of proper pride. For 168 years it has been the symbol of freedom and opportunity to the oppressed peoples of the earth. It calls for our best in a better citizenry and it demands that our privileges under a democracy, bought at such a tremendous sacrifice, be not neglected by a short-memoried people. Valley Forge and Gettysburg, we shall not forget. But because of Calvary, we shall say, "We will rejoice in thy salvation and in the name of our God we will set up our banners: The Lord fulfill all thy petitions." We pray in the Name of Jesus under Whose banner of love we "live and move and have our being." Amen.

Churchill opened his campaign by stating flat-footedly that a Labor Party victory would produce total government, full regimentation of the individual, an end to personal liberty and free enterprise, and eventual bankruptcy.

The immediate reply came not so much from the Labor Party leaders themselves as from the red-tinted "intellectuals" who accused Churchill of raising non-existent issues for purely political purposes.

Churchill has a devastating reply, which he presumably will deliver at the proper occasion—that he is quite as thoroughly convinced of the danger of Communism now as he was of the Hitler plot against England during the many months when his was almost the only voice consistently raised against Chamberlain's appeasement.

Just as events vindicated his judgment of the need for England to prepare for a fight to the death against Nazism, so it may be expected that future history will vindicate his opinion that free England will be forever enslaved if she flirts longer with the theories of Communism.

The courage and eloquence of Churchill will have rendered the world quite as much service as he already has given England, if they succeed in reversing the long trend toward Communism.

TWO GAMES TO BE PLAYED TONIGHT IN "SUB" CIRCUIT

Shutte-Koerting Will Meet
Rohm & Haas at Maple
Beach

GAMES CALLED AT 6.15

Diamond Team Scheduled
To Play Badenhausen IX
At Cornwells Heights

Two Bristol Suburban League games are scheduled for this evening. On the Maple Beach field, Shutte-Koerting will play the Rohm and Haas nine while at Cornwells Heights, Diamond will clash with the Badenhausen team. Both games will get under way at 6.15 o'clock.

Badenhausen is leading the circuit with four victories and no losses. It has a postponed game to play tomorrow evening with Diamond. The Rohm and Haas team is still in second place with 3 to 2 while Diamond has an even .500 percentage with two wins and two losses. Shutte-Koerting has lost five straight games.

It is most likely that Joe Sagolla will toss them in for the Diamanti boys tonight with Mitchell behind the plate. Paul Dean or Harry Munster will throw them for the fannies with Bowman doing the receiving.

Jack Kennedy will attempt to hurl the Shutte-Koerting workers to their first triumph. "Eddie" Doughty will pitch for the Rohm and Haas aggregation although Manager Anthony Castor may throw in Paul Cervellone who did well against the league-leading Badenhausen team on Tuesday night.

All games scheduled for last night were called off because of rain.

Elks including James R. Nicholson, Chairman of the War Commission; members of the Commission, and Grand Lodge Officers. A group of Senators and Representatives will accompany this delegation in calling on the President.

"The program arranged by the Elks," Dr. Barrett said, "is one of the most important and ambitious ever undertaken by any fraternal organization. The morning meeting will bring together all the Senators and Representatives who are members of the Order. A unique feature will be the presentation of messages from Governors of every State and from mayors of the 1,425 cities where Elks lodges are located, expressing their recognition and appreciation of the Order's war activities." These activities have entailed an expenditure of more than $1,300,000.

attacks. In one of these counter-thrusts, the Japs spent in approximately 900 men. At least 250 of these enemy troops died.

A half-hour-long barrage by mortars and machine guns preceded the Japanese effort, launched in the pre-dawn hours. After this scuffle, an observer atop Hill 95, near Hanagasaki, saw the Japs forming for another charge. U. S. "Long Tom" artillery was immediately brought to bear, and soon the enemy was in no shape to carry out the projected charge.

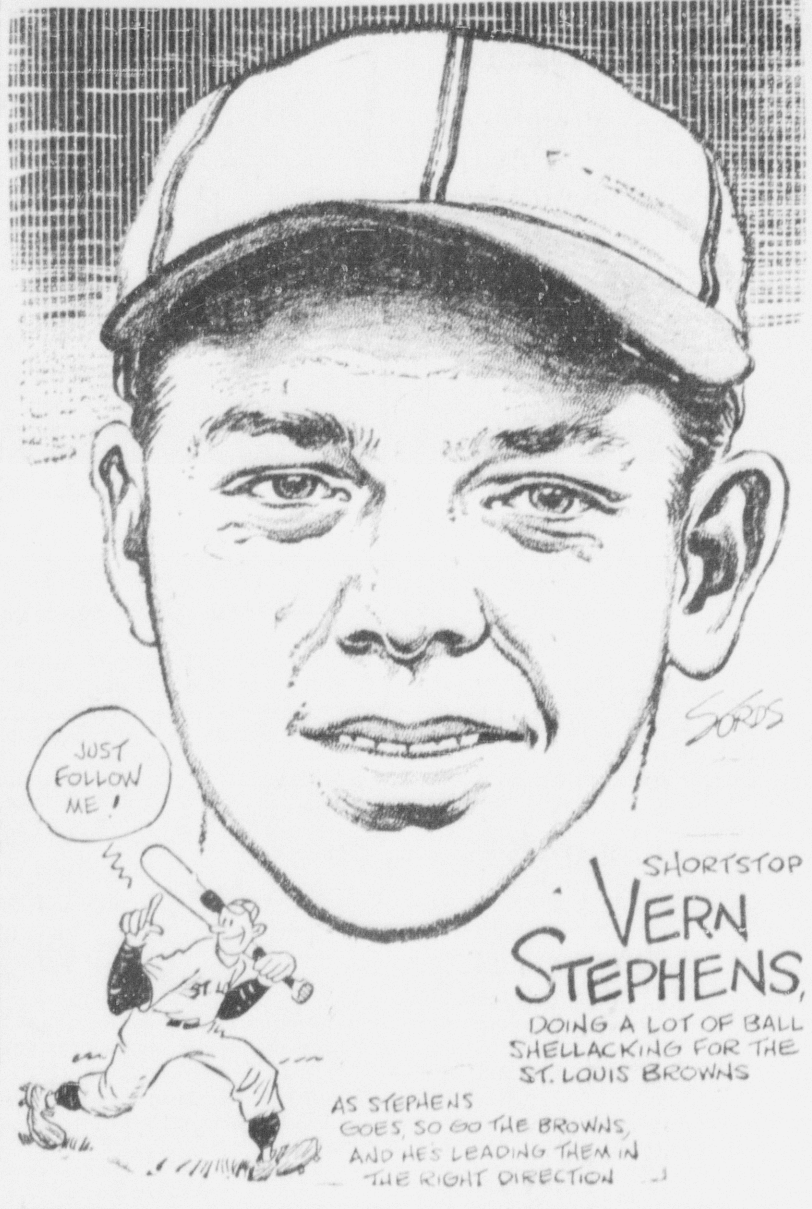

As this furious exchange occurred on the east flank of the escarpment front, Marines of the First Division maintained a steady advance on the western end of the line. The Leathernecks expanded and consolidated their positions atop Kunishi ridge.

The Marines were subjected to unceasing mortar and machine gun fire as they crouched upon the 150-foot-high ridge, and supply was a problem. However, it was not an insurmountable problem, and ammunition, food and medical equipment was dropped to them by parachute. Tanks also negotiated the tortuous roads to move supplies to the frontlines.

In between the two flanking thrusts, doughboys of the 96th Division pressed a frontal assault on the escarpment. Two companies wiped out 70 Japs in a morning-long fight near Tomui town, while other infantrymen reached the outskirts of Ozato town.

Mopping-up operations continued against the individual remnants of the now non-existent Oroku pocket.

BROWNS' BAROMETER - - By Jack Sords

Fleet Adm. Chester V. Nimitz revealed that the Sixth Marine Division concluded a bloody nine-day battle in which upwards of 3,500 Japs were slain along the southern shores of Naha Bay. He said that all organized resistance in the isolated area ended, and that only scattered Japs in caves and dug-outs remained to be eliminated.

Thousands of miles to the southwest, meanwhile, Australian troops closed on the important Brunel naval base from two directions. Gen. Douglas MacArthur revealed that the Aussies, famed "rats of Tobruk," swept eight miles through the steaming jungles of northern Borneo to stand within two miles northeast of the port; at the same time, other amphibious forces landed to the east of the city, pushed two miles inland and seized key heights dominating the waterfront area.

LANGHORNE

Chester Miller is slowly improving from his recent operation. Mrs. William Whittaker, of Hastings, N. Y., spent the week-end here with relatives.

Arthur S. Walker and family will leave on June 23rd to spend the summer in Ocean City, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Linton, Mrs. Frank W. Linton and Miss Anna M. Hibbs were visiting relatives in Morrisville on Sunday.

Robert Hance, 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hance, Jr., of Yardley Road, has been awarded a $25 war bond in a newspaper subscription contest.

The Community Vacation Bible School will be held in the Presbyterian Church July 9th to July 22nd. All children of the community are invited to attend.

The Methodist Church Sunday School picnic will be held at the high school grounds on June 23rd.

On Sunday evening at eight o'clock a program of sacred music will be rendered by the youth and senior choirs of Langhorne Methodist Church. In addition to numbers to be given by the choirs there will be an organ solo by the church organist, Miss Gladys Bender, and vocal solos by Miss Juliette Martin, Mrs. Rintye, and Miss Claire Cloud. A vocal trio will be by Mrs. Rintye, Miss Martin and Miss Royal.

PERSONAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. William Kershaw, Swain street, Mrs. Mabel Holsted and daughter Miss Helen Holsted, Radcliffe street, have returned from a week's vacation spent with Mrs. Holsted's relatives at Jersey Shore and Forkville.

SHIP PUREBRED BULLS

ITHACA, N. Y. — (INS) — Six pure-bred Brown Swiss bulls, the first group to be exported directly to war-torn areas for rebuilding the devastated livestock industry, are being shipped by neutral vessel to Greece. The animals, selected by Profs. Glenn W. Salisbury and George W. Trimbberger of Cornell University, will be used in an artificial insemination project to increase the milk available for feeding the near-destitute people of Greece.

NEW BRITAIN — (INS) — Cpl. Edward J. Herrman, honorably discharged after winning nine battle stars in Europe and two presidential citations with clusters, returned joyfully to his home only to find that the local rationing board considered him ineligible for gasoline coupons.

The Student Council awards were won by Rosemary Cavanaugh, Jane Landis, Marion Clark, James Boodley, Abner Dansbury and Charles Farkas, all of whom received medals. Mrs. Dansbury accepted the medal for her son, who has already left for service. The gold cups to the outstanding boy and girl were won by William Rogers and Dorothea Reitzle.

The boys who were graduated, but are now serving in the armed forces are: Ogden Gorham, John Cochran, Cyril Banko, Richard Woolf, Richard Arlet, Arthur Greenlee, Kenneth McClenaghan and Abner Dansbury.

Luncheon in Garden is In Honor of Miss Holden

A luncheon served yesterday in the garden of the home of Mrs. Paul Grunert, Pond street, marked the 19th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Grunert's granddaughter, Miss "Peggy" Holden. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Grunert, assisted by Mrs. Russell Edwards, Pond street.

The repast was served at attractively decorated tables shaded by large parasols.

The guests, co-workers of Miss Holden in the office of D. Landroth Seed Co., included: the Misses Marie Solt, Kathryn McVaine, Harriet Stetson, Elizabeth Wilkinson, Harriet Green, Mrs. Horace C. Schmidt, Bristol; the Misses Bertha Villius and Anna Maurer, Crofton; and Mrs. Henry Reichert, Holmesburg.

tinguished Unit Citation for its untiring efforts and professional skill and determination in the rapid production of target charts and interpreted aerial photographs for the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces.

Lt. Duff lives at Morrisville, Pa. His wife is the former Hope Hollins, who before her marriage lived at Trenton, N. J. Before entering service the lieutenant was an architect with office in Corpus Christi, Texas. He has served overseas for 33 months with the drafting platoon of the map makers of the aviation engineers, Private Fusco, of Brook street, Bristol, Pa., is a truck driver and has served overseas for 21 months. Formerly he was a store clerk for the Public Service Gas & Electric Co., Trenton, N. J.

Responsible for printing many of the maps and charts which guide allied airmen in Italy to enemy targets, this unit played an important role in the many successful air attacks on the Ploesti oil refineries, on German industrial targets, and on tactical and strategic targets throughout Southern France, Italy and the Balkans. Initiative and resourcefulness have been displayed by its members in reproducing professional work with field equipment in the face of frequent shortage of supplies.

Veteran members of the unit have been producing maps and charts through three major campaigns, having been associated first with the 12th Air Force in its infant days in North Africa, and now with both the 12th and 15th Air Forces in Italy. A member of the AAF Engineer Command, the unit is part of the vast organization of aviation engineers serving the Allied Air Forces in the Mediterranean Theater.

Lt. Duff and PFC Fusco both wear the European-African-Middle Eastern Theater Ribbon, with two battle participation stars, for the Naples-Foggia and Rome-Arno Campaigns.

COUNTY FARMERS ARE HANDICAPPED BY THE WEATHER

Many of Them Have Much
Corn To Be Planted

TOMATO CROP POOR

Little Time Gained by Warm
March Weather Has Been Lost

DOYLESTOWN, June 14—Wet weather during the entire Spring, according to County Agent William Greenawalt, has been retarding work on farms in Bucks and adjoining counties, and all of the time which was made up during extremely warm weather during the middle of March has been farmers are anxiously awaiting conditions to permit the planting of corn, and those who have been fortunate enough to get their corn planted find their fields covered with grass and weeds. If and when the ground dries, they will have a difficult time in removing weeds and grass.

Conditions for the harvesting of a hay crop have been anything but favorable, and some farmers have resorted to cutting the grass and placing it in the silos instead of letting it remain on the fields to

According to Mr. Greenawalt, a large amount of alfalfa was cut early in the season, but the farmers were unable to harvest it because of the frequent rains. As a result much of the alfalfa was left on the fields, and this will have a tendency to smother the second crop of alfalfa.

During the wet weather the grass and small grains have developed to a great extent, and they appear to be in good condition. The small grains, including winter barley and wheat, have made remarkable progress. The stalks are taller than usual, and the farmers are of the opinion the stalks will lodge, especially in case of severe wind storms.

Sweet corn growers, according to Mr. Greenawalt, are particularly alarmed. Half of the sweet corn planting period has elapsed, but 50 per cent of the acreage remains to be planted. The normal time for planting sweet corn is May and June. Delay in the planting of sweet corn will mean it will all mature at the same time, and this will result in an overstocking of the market later in the season. Normally sweet corn is harvested from the middle of July until the latter part of September, but due to the fact that very little sweet corn was planted in May, the harvest early in the season will be extremely light.

Not only are the sweet corn growers having their difficulties, but farmers specializing in the cultivation of tomatoes have been far behind with their work. In fact, said Mr. Greenawalt, the prospects for a good tomato crop are not too bright due to the fact that they got a poor start.

Many of the tomato growers got their plants from the South, but because of the poor weather, they were obliged to store the plants from ten days to two weeks. During that time what is known as stem canker developed. Some of the growers planted tomatoes twice, and still they do not have a good stand. This is because of stem canker and the poor growing conditions brought about by the wet and cold weather.

RECIPES

Beets Piquante
1 tablespoon shortening
¼ cup water

¼ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 small beets
Cook beets in boiling water until tender. Melt shortening and add water, vinegar, sugar, salt and pepper, and bring to the boiling point. Remove skins of beets. Slice and reheat in sauce. Serve very hot.

Baked Stuffed Tomatoes
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons sugar

3 tablespoons shortening
6 tomatoes

Mix bread crumbs with salt, pepper, 1 tablespoon sugar and two tablespoons melted shortening. Cut thin slice from stem end of tomatoes and remove a little of the center. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and sugar. Fill with the stuffing. Dot with small bits of shortening and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour.

BUTLER—(INS)—Army officials at Doshon General Hospital said

the Third Service Command had disclosed several persons in the Pennsylvania - Maryland - Virginia area had aided German prisoners of war escape despite the threat of heavy penalties.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, tightness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

WAKE UP YOUR DIGESTION BELOW THE BELT

Without Stomach Relievers

To Get Happy Relief from Gassy, Bloating, Tight-around-the-Waist, Nausea, You May Need This Kind of Laxative Help

When most food leaves the stomach, it is by no means fully digested. It is in the 8 feet, or more, of intestines, that the greater part of digestion is done. Among the vital digestive juices that work in the intestines, the liver bile is one of the most important—especially vital to the digestion of fats. Unless the liver bile flows sufficiently, digestion of fats slows down. Food stays in bowels. You may get constipated and feel full of gassy, bloated, indigestion misery. That's when you need Beecham's Pills. They help get the bile juice flowing freely, which helps you digest and eliminate in Nature's happy way. Ask your druggist for gentle, all-vegetable Beecham's Pills today. Caution: Use only as directed. 25¢.

Half an American?

"There ain't
no such animal!"

No, there just can't be half an American. It is a case of ALL—not almost. Anything less is un-American—un-American as those who maliciously, or unknowingly, spread racial or religious intolerance.

All of us know what the obsession of a "superior" race has meant in savage slaughter and slavery . . . in ravage and ruin. The pity of it is that too few of us here care to know that this Hitler-inspired doctrine has reached our own shores, its evil tentacles spread out to "divide and conquer"—to halve Americans.

We must remember that this deadly, poisonous scheme, born of Nazi fanaticism, is one of the things that we Americans and all the free people of the world, are fighting against. We must remember, too, as true Americans—that this great Country of ours was founded upon the principle that ALL men are created equal, that it became great through the contributions of ALL creeds—Catholic, Protestant and Jew—regardless of race—regardless of color.

And let us remember that this war is being won by the contributions of ALL these creeds and races—Americans ALL—determined to keep alive and burning the flame of justice and equality.

Stamp out this vicious attempt to divide Americans . . . to undermine American unity. Let the world know—once and for all—that we are ALL Americans!

Be American!

CASTOR SERVES AS A
LOOKOUT ON CARRIER

Lt. Daniel S. Rankin, South
Langhorne, Tells of Men's Religious Spirit

SERVICEMEN'S NEWS

ABOARD A CARRIER IN THE WESTERN PACIFIC, June 14—Joseph M. Castor, 19, S. 2/c, USNR, of Bristol, Pa., is one of the lookouts who serve as the "eyes of the ship" aboard this carrier.

With the safety of the ship, as
well as the lives of their shipmates,
depending on their alertness and
accuracy, lookouts are chosen for good vision and ability as ship and plane recognition experts. Their stations are on platform levels
high above the water, each man being assigned a sector of the horizon. They scan the sky and sea through powerful glasses for
two-hour periods for signs of enemy ships or planes.

During battle, the lookouts are in exposed spots, but their work goes
on. Despite the danger, many of them prefer their stations because they offer "grandstand seats" for the action.

Castor is the son of Mr. and Mrs.
Michael Castor, 341 Lafayette street, Bristol. Before entering service, he was employed as an aviation assembler by the Eastern Aircraft Corp., Trenton, N. J.

ABOARD A BATTLESHIP SOME-WHERE IN THE PACIFIC, June 14
—Lt. Daniel S. Rankin, chaplain, USNR, South Langhorne, Pa.,
broadcast reports of the action to men below deck during the recent invasion bombardment of a Japanese island in the western Pacific.

Lt. Rankin, in addition to being chaplain, acts as classification and education officer. His primary duties, however, are religious. Every Sunday he holds at least four services, two Catholic masses and two general services. Masses are held each afternoon and communion is observed each evening when possible. When air raids interrupt church services the men rush to their battle stations, then return

when the danger has passed.

"The religious spirit among the men manifests itself not only in church attendance," says Lt. Rankin, "but also in the dozens of private interviews daily with men
who seek a few words with me day
and night."

Lt. Rankin was station chaplain
at Camp Endicott, Davisville, R. I.,
for two years. A graduate of Mar-
ist Seminary and Catholic University, Washington, D. C., and of the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Lt. Rankin was a college
professor before entering the Navy.
He taught at St. Mary's Manor,
South Langhorne, Pa., and at Villa-
nova College, Villanova, Pa.

Staff Sgt. John J. McDade, who
was wounded and taken a prisoner
in Germany, and who was subsequently liberated, is now at the Valley Forge General Hospital, Phoenixville.

Sgt. McDade, son of Mrs. Catherine McDade, Croydon, was a section leader in a machine gun battalion. After 26 months in the European theatre of operations, he is recovering from his wound and signs of imprisonment. He holds the Bronze Star, Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster, Combat Infantry-
man's Badge, and good conduct ribbon.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh
Lee Mapes Sticks His Neck Out

We had a meeting at the Town
Hall Friday night, and when Homer Bently spoke up for a
new roof for the schoolhouse,
Lee Mapes interrupts him.

"How long you been in this town?" Lee demands.

"Fourteen years," says Homer
proudly.

"Then you keep quiet!" says
Lee. "We can't have transients
running things in our town."

I'm glad to report that all of us voted Lee down and let Homer have his say. I'm glad not just because the school did need

a new roof, but because it doesn't do to let intolerance and
prejudice creep into a community.

Whether a man's stayed "put"
a lifetime or a year, whether he works with his head or his hands, drinks beer or buttermilk—so long as he's a good American he has a right to speak
his mind, and have his opinions (however different they may
be) respected.

IT'S NEWS!
DU PONT
self-cleaning
HOUSE
PAINT
stays white!

Painting is essential today

These days, "make it last" is as important as "make it beautiful." That's why, when you paint, it's a good idea to get the best paint you can buy. Du Pont House Paint, for instance. Du Pont House Paint forms a beautiful, durable film—and guards the surface against rot, rust, decay.

Starts white—stays white

Moreover, Du Pont House Paint contains
the whitest pigment known. Titanium dioxide—whiter than snow. So your house will start whitest-of-white, and stay that way.
That's because . . .

It's self-cleaning

All paints collect dirt on exposure. But, with Du Pont House Paint, "self-cleaning" starts
after a few months of normal weather conditions. A fine white powder forms on the surface. Heavy rains wash this away, carrying the dirt with it—leaving the newly exposed surface clean and white again! (Unusual climatic or dirt-collecting conditions in extremely sooty industrial communities may, of course, delay
this process.) Because this "self-cleaning" is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected.

Despite this remarkable quality of Du Pont House Paint,
it costs no more than other good paints.

DU PONT HOUSE PAINT $3.35
in 5-gallon lots GAL.

► We will be glad to recommend a reliable painter. He knows how to do the job right, how much or how little paint to use.
His skill means savings for you—and paint conservation for America.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Mr. Symington's Job

Washington, June 14. — THE somewhat silly debate as to whether Mr. Truman is going to the "right" or to the "left" is renewed every time he makes an appointment or takes a position. At the moment, the left-wingers are convinced that developments indicate a trend in their direction.

EXAMPLE, they are gratified the retention of Judge Sam C. Nathan, who wrote so many letters and messages for Roosevelt. Also, they are glad that among the six more anonymous secretaries of Roosevelt, two who appear to stay are Mr. David Niles and Mr. Lauchlin Currie, very radicals, indeed, and not at all the one expected would linger. There is the continued use of Hopkins as a confidential emissary to foreign parts; the fact that Robert Nathan and Mr. Edward L. Rieu, who are to remain as aides to Mobilizer Vinson—and, finally, statement of Mr. Vinson, supply approved by the President, that the Murray "full employment" bill, so enthusiastically introduced by Mr. Wallace, the CIO and communists.

It is possible to add to this leftist list. It is also possible to offset it with a conservative list in which the Loan Administrator Sny-Arthur General Clark, Mr. Stuart Symington, Jr., the new property administrator, and others would figure. The truth is that there is a balance on the Truman side. If ever there was one, a middle-of-the-road man. He is going very far in either direction. His appointments are not completely political. They are completely nonpolitical. It is that in almost every change made he has raised the level of governmental competency. A notable example is the Symington appointment. The position of the property administrator is one of the most important of the war period. It involves handling billions of dollars' worth of material and property. It has vast responsibilities for good and evil. It is for both ability and character. The Roosevelt named for this post the elderly lame-duck Senator Guy Gillette, from Iowa, who took over early in the year. He is a thoroughly upright, honest, likable man. There is nothing to be said for the matter with his character, but it is difficult to maintain a position for the position into which he was thrust by a friendly president. Nor was it made any easier for him that the two colleagues whom Mr. Roosevelt put on the board with him knew no more about his work than he. Thus, the position was created which rallied the men who best realized the scope and importance of the job.

ODENLY, something is done but it is by Mr. Truman who re-assigns Senator Gillette with an eye, young and very successful manufacturer from St. Louis, Mr. Symington is from an old Democratic Maryland family. His father is a distinguished Baltimore lawyer. His father-in-law is Republican Representative James W. Edgewood. But he has never taken part in politics and never aspired to it. It does seem that here is a selection made entirely on merit and by the President himself, and because of his own knowledge of the man and belief in his ability. With the kindest feelings Senator Gillette, almost anyone would agree that President Truman has improved the public service at a particularly vital point.

BUT Mr. Symington ought to be warned, the President's memory ought to be refreshed and the public ought not to expect too much from the new setup. Because there is one great obstacle in the way—to wit, the law. It will be recalled that the first surplus property administrator was Mr. William L. Clayton. Urged by Mr. B. M. Baruch and Mr. John Hancock as the best-qualified man in the United States for the job, Mr. Clayton took it on at the request of Mr. Roosevelt. The preliminary work was admirably done. The trouble came in getting Congress to pass the necessary legislation under which the board had to function. First, there were months of inexcusable delay. Finally, the Senate passed a bill so bad that Mr. Clayton quietly announced that under it the job could not be properly done.

and resigned. Those who know the facts agree with Mr. Clayton, now an Assistant Secretary of State, that no man can do a really good job under this law. It would seem the part of wisdom for Mr. Symington, first, to study the law; second, to confer with Mr. Clayton and Mr. Baruch concerning its defects; third, to get the President's support in an effort to secure its amendment by Congress. If Mr. Clayton is right—and he has a habit of being right about such things—it would be very foolish for Mr. Symington to undertake a job that cannot be done. He is too good a man to be put up against that sort of thing.

Exciting things can be done with small bits of left-over meat, declares Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. The easiest way to handle the small pieces is to run them through the food chopper, the ground meat may then be used in sandwich fillings, salads, casseroles, or baked foods.

Try adding 1/3 to 1/2 cup ground cooked meat, especially ham, to plain muffin batter. (The sugar in the recipe may be omitted.) Or combine meat with softened margarine and seasonings, and spread on biscuit dough; roll like a jelly roll, slice, and bake. ## Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

RITZ ELECTRIC table broilers are here again! They make bang-up wedding gifts, believe me. Definitely handsome and large enough to be impressive, they'll star on wedding gift display tables. The "Ritz" table broiler is a sort of super chafing dish. It has high and low heat for all-purpose cooking, is odorless and smokeless, cleans easily. Made of good weight highly polished aluminum. It broils, bakes, fries, toasts, grills. It can turn out broiled steaks and chops, baked potatoes, apples, biscuits, etc., etc. The wooden side holders and the wood handle add to the appearance of each broiler. Price, $17.95. Find a "Ritz" in the Housefurnishings Dept. of the Snellenburg store. (3rd fl.)

QUALITY WALLETS are appreciated by men. Just at present the Snellenburg wallet counter (in the Handbag Dept.) is well supplied with handsome Prince Gardner "Registrars" at only $5. The wallets are very modern in construction, containing adequate pockets and plenty of "windows" in which to display passes, cards, photos and the like. This windowed section is a complete wallet within a wallet and can be removed and carried separately if desired. Fashioned of well tanned goatskin, in several good looking finishes. Browns and tans. Also, I was astounded at the quality and fashioning of some real tanned sheepskin leather wallets, priced at a mere $1. These even contain "windows." They come in black or brown. Three initials in gold will be stamped free on all wallets. Other wallets to $20. Wallets subject to 20% tax. (1st fl.)

DAD'S PAJAMAS for Fathers' Day are awaiting final selection in the Snellenburg Men's Furnishings Department. See, particularly, the $3.95 coat-style numbers of smooth-as-silk tissue weave cotton! They have a mere suggestion of a collar as a concession to good tailoring. Regulation long sleeves. Tan, bamboo, ivory, in plain colors. Sizes A, B, C. (1st floor)

CRYSTALIZED JOY is the only way in which to describe the lovely, unusual Stang-created birds which the Snellenburg China Department has collected for wedding-gift buying. They are beautifully done in bright bird colors, exquisite shapes—the kind of interior decoration "accessories" that the best decorators approve. $3 to $25. (3rd fl.)

EGGS AND POULTRY GROWING SCARCER IN BUCKS COUNTY

Buyers Drive to Farmers' Door and Pay High Prices

CAN GET ANY PRICE

Poultry Said to Bring As High as $1.50 per Pound At Nearby Farms

Eggs and poultry in Bucks County are becoming exceedingly scarce. Some say that Bucks County hens have stopped laying. Many blame the black market. It is reported that egg producers are not selling their product at 43 cents wholesale ceiling price per dozen, when folks drive to their door and offer them as high as one dollar per dozen for eggs.

And it's a cinch to get as much as $1.50 per pound for poultry, reports indicate.

Livestock at the headquarters of the Bucks County Producers' Cooperative Association, Doylestown (the egg auction), is at the lowest ebb in ten years, Lester Brinker, manager of the auction told a reporter. "Volume is way down and the future does not look very bright," he added.

One New York State auction that handled 22,000 crates weekly is now down to 8,000 crates. Many egg auctions have been forced to close down completely.

The retail price of eggs will increase on Thursday of this week to 53 cents per dozen. The present wholesale price is 43 cents per dozen. The top ceiling price today is 51 cents.

The countryside is filled with city folks—and others—buying up everything possible in the way of food, with eggs and poultry bringing incredibly high black market prices. Those who know and see these buyers, say that new faces are appearing every day, as folks are actually being forced into black market in order to get sufficient food.

A town of 5,000 inhabitants in a rural county, without an egg, is almost unbelievable, but that's what happened in one Bucks Co. community last Saturday.

'Aussies' Like Meat— Learn American GI's

In considering the food customs of Australia, it must be remembered that one is speaking of an entire continent, with varied climatic conditions and a diverse population. In "the land down under," many English eating habits have been transplanted. Meals in Australian cities are much the same as in England, and many well-known English dishes are found in adapted form.

In contrast to the cities are the isolated plantations and estates. These often have their own "stations," where the workers come to get their meals, as well as to buy necessities and receive their pay. The cooks at the "station kitchens" feature fried chops, and also do roasting on a large scale. Meat is plentiful in Australia... the workingman frequently breakfasts on chops or steak.

Still a third population group, the Australian natives, stick to their own original diet, which centers around a wide variety of fruits and vegetables.

Many American soldiers have become familiar with Australian food from associating with the "Aussies" and being entertained in Australian homes, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. To name a few typical Australian dishes—there are the popular Steak and Kidney Pie, Oxtail and Kidney Stew, Scotch Collops, Scalloped Brains, and Curry. Steak-and-eggs is a favorite; this consists of a 3/4-inch steak fried medium and served with an egg, fried sunny-side up, on top. Tea and scones are traditional, the latter having many variations.

In New Zealand, today, the menu is much like that of near-by Australia, and resembles that of England in many ways. A typical dinner dish is Colonial Goose, which is made of a boned leg of mutton. Another is India Curry, New Zealand style. In both Australia and New Zealand, the people have a fondness for sweets and pies, and also enjoy many interesting fruit combinations.

Scalloped Brains with Macaroni

- 1 pound brains
- Water to cover
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 small onion
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered sage
- 2 1/2 cups medium cream sauce
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper, or more
- 1 1/2 to 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 cups cooked macaroni
- 1/4 cup grated cheese
- 3 tablespoons bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Wash brains; cover with water. Add salt, onion and sage. Cook slowly about 20 minutes and drain. Remove membrane from brains; slice in 1-inch pieces. Add to cream sauce; season with cayenne pepper and lemon juice. Mix cooked macaroni with grated cheese. Place some of the macaroni on bottom and along sides of oiled baking dish. Fill center with brain mixture, and put remaining macaroni around edge of dish. Mix bread crumbs with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle over top. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until set and golden brown. Serve very hot with green or mixed salad. Serves 4.

India Curry, New Zealand Style

- 2 tablespoons margarine or drippings
- 2/3 cup onions, chopped
- 1 1/2 cups (1 large) apple, cut in 1/2-inch dice
- 2 tablespoons sultana raisins
- 1 1/2 tablespoons shredded coconut
- 4 teaspoons curry powder
- 3/4 to 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/3 cups water
- 2 cups cooked meat (any kind) cut in 1-inch dice
- 1 large, firm banana, sliced
- Cooked rice

Melt fat in pan and fry onion until it starts to color. Add apple and stir. Add raisins and coconut and mix well. Add curry powder, salt and pepper. Cook all together for 5 minutes, stirring until well blended. Add water and cooked meat. Cover pan tightly and cook 1 hour in very slow oven (250 degrees F.) or on top of range on lowest flame. Uncover, add a little more water if too dry. It should have the consistency of a thin stew. Add banana, stir, cover and cook about 1/2 hour omre. Serve with rice. Serves 4 to 6.

Raisin Rolls

- 2 cups flour
- 5 tps. baking powder
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 tps. sugar
- 3 tps. shortening
- 2/3 cup milk
- 1 tsp. melted shortening
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 3/4 cup chopped nuts
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt, and 1 tps. of sugar. Cut in shortening with a knife or rub in with finger tips. Add milk gradually and mix to a soft dough. Roll out on a slightly floured board. Brush over with the melted shortening. Sprinkle with raisins, nuts, 1 tps. sugar and the cinnamon. Roll like a jelly roll and cut in 1/4-inch slices. Put in a greased baking pan, cut side down, and bake in a quick oven (425 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Serve hot. This recipe makes eight rolls.

Thick Vegetable Soup

- 1/2 cup dried lima beans
- 1/2 cup dried peas
- 2 tps. barley
- 2 tps. rice
- 2 tps. kidney beans
- 2 qts. cold water
- 1/2 cup celery, cut in pieces
- 2 potatoes, sliced
- 2 onions, sliced
- 1 white turnip, diced
- 1 cup stewed or canned tomatoes

Cook as usual to rare, medium or well done.	—or 6 to 8 Servings of TOPSY-TURVY MEAT PIE Brown in hot lard, season well, and simmer in 1 can tomato soup, then cover with drop biscuit batter and bake.	—or 8 Servings of MEAT LOAF Extend with 1 cup rolled oats, 1 cup milk, and 1 egg, and combine with the usual seasonings. Roast in slow oven (350° F.).
1 pound ARM OR CHUCK  —Makes 4 to 5 Servings of SWISS STEAK Braise with 1 No. 2 can tomato, 1/2 pound sliced onions and seasonings until steak is tender, two to three hours.	—or 8 Servings of BEEF STEW Cube beef and simmer. Add enough potatoes, onions and carrots for 8. Top with dumplings last 20 minutes. Extend steak with kidney if desired.	—or 6 Servings of COUNTRY FRIED STEAK Cut thick pound beef, season and fry, extend meat by smothering in 1 1/2 pounds of fried onions.
1 pound CROSS CUT SHANK  —Makes 4 Servings of POT-ROAST WITH NOODLES Brown, add small amount of liquid, cover and cook slowly until tender. Serve on bed of noodles, with creamy, brown gravy.	—or 4 Servings of BEEF SHANK-HORSERADISH Simmer in water until tender. Remove and boil vegetables in stock. Serve beef in cream sauce seasoned with horseradish, onion, little lemon juice, and pimiento.	—or 4 Servings of STUFFED BEEF SHANK Remove bone and fill with bread stuffing. Braise as a pot-roast until tender. Serve with extra stuffing (baked) and rich, brown gravy.
1 pound FLANK MEAT  —Makes 6 Servings of BRAISED FLANK Cut in rectangles, brown. Add 1 1/2 cup stock or water. Add sliced carrots, onions, celery, green peppers, etc., continue braising 'til tender. Serve vegetable gravy.	—or 8 Servings of BEEF CHOP SUEY Cut in thin, narrow strips and follow favorite recipe for chop suey. Serve with or over rice. Add Chinese noodles for Chow Mein.	—or 8 Servings of BEEF POT-PIE Prepare beef and vegetable stew, adding kidney or heart if needed. Place in casserole. Cover with top of pastry or biscuits and bake at 400° F. until brown.

Housewives, harassed by the wartime problem of making the family meat go 'round, will find in the above table a number of ideas which will help to accomplish this purpose and at the same time provide tasty meat dishes. This table describes some ingenious ways with four different cuts of beef—hamburger, arm or chuck, cross cut shank, and flank meat. There is equal opportunity with other cuts of beef that may be available, as well as with cuts of pork and lamb.

MATCH THEIR SPIRIT in the MIGHTY 7th WAR LOAN DRIVE

YES, despite their long months and years of privation and suffering, those gallant men, just released from filthy Jap Prison Camps, still have their good old fighting spirit. They're itching to get back into the fight and give the Nips a taste of their own medicine.

Let's show them that we're not quitting either! Let's match their spirit with our dollars! Let's make this MIGHTY 7th War Loan the mightiest of them all!

But to come even close to matching their sacrifices, everyone here at home must buy War Bonds until it hurts. Buy double or treble the extra War Bonds you've bought in any previous drive. Remember, this is really two drives in one. In the same period last year, you were asked to subscribe to two War Loans.

So let's go, Americans. Our hard-fighting Soldiers, Sailors and Marines are giving their ALL. The least we can do is to lend our dollars.
